

Advocare opening new practice in Sewell

Tue, Mar 30, 2010

Advocare, one of the leading physician-owned primary care health-care practices in the region, recently announced plans for the opening of its new specialty care practice – Advocare DelGiorno Endocrinology in Sewell.

Advocare DelGiorno Endocrinology specializes in treating metabolic and endocrine-related disorders including diabetes, thyroid disease, osteoporosis, lipid disorders, pituitary and adrenal dysfunction, as well as parathyroid disease. The practice will also provide comprehensive diabetes management and work closely with primary care physicians to ensure continuity of care. Advocare DelGiorno Endocrinology provides a patient-centered approach that focuses on individualized treatment and collaborative decision-making.

Dr. DelGiorno is a graduate of Jefferson Medical College. He completed his residency at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital in Philadelphia and his endocrinology fellowship at the Mayo Clinic in Florida. He is board certified in diabetes, endocrinology and metabolism, as well as internal medicine, and is an active member of the Endocrine Society, the American Diabetes Association and the American Association of Clinical Endocrinologists.

The new practice in Sewell is located in the new Virtua Health and Wellness Center, a 250,000 square-foot facility, which offers numerous primary care and specialty services under one roof.