

MAIN LINE TIMES

Volume 79, No. 18 • Thursday, April 30, 2009-May 6, 2009

IN BUSINESS

On the Main Line

Advocare pediatric practice to reopen Sunday in historic Albrecht's building

WYNNEWOOD — Advocare, one of the leading physician-owned primary-care health-care practices in the country, announces plans to move its Main Line Pediatrics office in Lankenau Hospital to Narberth.

The new site will offer patients a 4,440-square-foot pediatric facility in the historic Albrecht's Building, 701 Montgomery Ave., with state-of-the-art technology, separate teen waiting areas and free parking.

Seven physicians will continue to provide comprehensive medical care at the new location for children from infancy through adolescence in the areas of wellness and preventive care, developmental pediatrics and urgent-care medicine.

Advocare is committed to providing high-quality health care with a personal, caring touch that focuses on the health, safety and well-being of the communities it serves.

The new location of Advocare Main Line is scheduled to open Sunday, May 3.

The number is 610-642-9200. Advocare is also online at www.advocaredoctors.com.

The pediatricians on staff are Burton H. Langer, M.D., Janet M. Michaelson, M.D., Joshua A. Rabinowitz, D.O., Mindy F. Rosenblum, M.D., Michael Devon, M.D., Melanie A. Koehler, M.D., and Debra L. Shollenberger, D.O.

Advocare Main Line Pediatrics' Paoli office will not move. It is at 11 Industrial Boulevard, Suite 2.